GREAT OIL SPOUTERS.

Wells in Russia Making Pennsylvania Op-erators Anxious—Geysers That Yield as High as Three Million Barrels. TITUSVILLE, PA., April 22.—Statistics of the oil business in Russia have just reached this country and American oil mea are studying them with a great deal of anxiety. They throw a new light on the business in Russia, and show too plainly that the Baku districts are a most dangerous rival of the American fields. The output of many of the Russian wells is prodigious, and far eclipses any thing ever heard of in this country. American oil producers have claimed to have no fears of Russian competition, but with the new information on that industry in that country they are taking another view of fact to them than by a few comparisons. Take a well at Baku called the "Wet Nurse." It has been yielding oil for tweive years, and in that time has averaged thirty-two thousand gallons a day. These figures are amazing to an Americau oil producer. They mean that the well has pro duced 140,000,000 gallons of oil, or over $3,000,000 barrels. These figures are startling to the people of this section when they turn to the statis-tics of their own industry and find that this one well has produced three times as much as Pithole produced in a year of its wonderful business. It lacks less than 400,000 barrels of producing as much as the famous Oil Creek district produced in 1869, its most prolific year. The Washington district, among the richest ever discovered in America, in 1887, its banner year, produced but 3,500,000 bar-rels. This is but 500,000 barrels more than the output of this one well in Russia. The wonderful Thorn Creek pool in Butler County produced in its twelve months but 268,000 barrels more than this one Russian gusher. Such astounding facts as these bring the danger of Russian competition home to the people of the Pennsylvania fields. This well does tion. The yearly output is given of a num ber of wells, many of them nearly as large as this one. The "Mirzoeff, No. 5," also at Baku, has for six years produced 40,000 gallons a day. This is above 2,000,000 barrels: and the production of Cogley, Tarkill and and the production of Cogley, Tarkill and Red Valley, three prolific Venango Coun-typools, produced but 1,965,000 barrels in 1886, their best year. The record is given of a well drilled by the Nobel Brothers, called the "Droojba Well." It cost $7,500 to drill. The record of the well is thus stated: "This well spouted for 115 days, the yield being 3,400 tons a day for fortythree days, 900 tons for thirty, and 600 tons for eleven days. The well was then plugged and the supply kept underground for further wants. The total amount of oil spouted by this well, according to the lowest estimate, was 22,000 tons, or 55,000,-000 gallons; according to the highest esti-mate, 500,000 tons, or 125,000,000 gallons."

The Amended Shape in Which It Comes Before the Present Congress.

A More Liberal Measure Than That Asked for by the Grand Army of the Republic.

WASHINGTON, April 20 .- The dependent pension bill, which was vetoed by President Cleveland after passing the Fortyninth Congress, has been the subject of serious consideration by the Grand Army of the Republic and by the Committee on Invalid Pensions of the present session, and will soon come before the House again in its amended form. The new bill, instead of giving a pension of twelve dollars per month to those who are totally incapacitated for the performance of manual labor, provides that the pension for such persons shall be at the rate per month of one cent for each day's service. In tally disabled, and that without regard to dependence. It goes beyond that asked by the Grand Army of the Republic, and provides the same kind of pension to all who are now sixty-two years of age and who are now sixty-two years of age and to all who shall become sixty-two years from and after that period, during their natural lives. The bill gives recognition to the manifestly just principle of pensioning a soldier for his service according to his service. The objection needy do not receive at this rate enough to give them entire relief from their in poverished condition, and yet the fact re mains that each is pensioned at the same rate according to his service. And if one receives not enough it is because he did not serve long whole war would at this rate get more than is provided in the Senate bill fo them. The committee recognizes the ffict that the period for a universal service pension bill is fast approaching, and that many well founded complaints have been made that advancing years have rendered ter of very great difficulty to many of the reterans of even our late civil war, and s to meet the question of giving this class of worthy citizens the relief that they have a right to expect from the general Govern-ment, they have provided that all who are now of the age of sixty-two years shall be at once placed on the pension roll at the rate of one cent per month for each day of war service, and that all who have not, shall, as they become of that age, be likewise placed on the list of pensions. A substi-tute for the third section of the Senate the widows the same principle applied to the soldiers, and the fourth section of the bill is amended so as to give attorneys a fee of five instead of ten dollars.

CANANDAIGUA. N. Y., April 19.—W. A.
Daniels, of Bath, Steuben County, has just come into a fortune of $150,000 under circumstances decidedly romantic. In 1863 Daniels was in charge of a wagon train, which was passing by one of the roads of the wilderness. The dense forest was on fire, and every thing in or, near it was doomed to destruction. Charles W. Davison, then a lad of seventeen years of age, was discovered by Daniels lying by the side of the wagon train. He was seriously wounded, and as orders forbade the carrying of any person or the wagon train he was in imminent peril. Helpless from his wounds he called upon Daniels to remove him from danger of burning to death. He believed the end was near, but he was terrified at the pros-pect of burning to death. Daniels' heart was touched, and at the risk of his own liberty if not his life he lifted the lad upon a wagon and carried him to Fredericks-Davison lived to become a rich man and other words, what is known as the per dism to bless Daniels for saving his life; but he idea is applied to all soldiers who are to-could never get him to accept financial ascould never get him to accept financial assistance though he was sometimes sorely in need of it. Her Husband Shot Dead by the Same Crowd—The Woman Accused of Incon-GALLATIN, TENN., April 19 .- One of the most sensational tragedies in the history of this county was enacted last night, about twelve o'clock, a few miles from town. It was the lynching of a negro woman named Puss Kirkpatrick, and the shooting fatally of her husband Isaac. The woman was charged with incendiarism. Jim McCollough, what he supposed to be a woman in her night-dress hiding behind a tree, and in his close scrutiny of so unusual a sight he almost stumbled over the body of Isaac most stumbled over the body of Isaac Kirkpatrick, the husband, lying beside the road. Upon reaching the tree the ghastly truth burst upon him. The woman was hanging dead, her foot almost on the ground. He hurriedly reported the fact in town. A coroner and jury of inquest repaired to the spot, receiving that the woman came to her death porting that the woman came to her death by strangulation and the husband by a pistol-shot wound by parties unknown. The husband was not suspected of complicity in house-burning, and the theory of his killing is that he discovered the identity of some of the lynching party, and was shot to avoid exposure.

The Murderers Caught in the House and Three of Them Killed—Cool Judg-ment of a Peddler.

Hill, a substantial farmer who lives on Barn Creek, on Elk river, about twenty miles from this city, and who is well-known to many of our citizens, came to town yesterday, and brought news of a most horrible murder. A man, whose name he was unable to learn, who lived in Calhoun County, about forty miles from Charleston, had been away with a small drove of cattle, which he had small drove of cattle, which he had disposed of, and was returning home on Wednesday last, but being overtaken by night, he stopped at the house of a neighbor. Something weighed heavily on his mind, and, though he could not explain the reason, he decided to go on and reach his home, fearing that something had gone wrong. A peddler who was stopping at the house offered to accompany him, and then they both started gether. They finally reached the house and seeing a light in the window ap-proached carefully and looked in. The sight almost froze their blood with hor-ror. Lying on the floor, weltering in their blood, lay the wife and three children in cold death, and four strange men were sitting and standing in the room. The peddler's presence of mind did not desert him, and, drawing his revolver, he told his companion to make a noise at the back door and hold it shot while he stood guard at the front. shut, while he stood guard at the front. This was done, and the men inside the room made a rush for the front door, and were shot by the plucky little peddier as fast as they came, three being killed and the fourth severely wounded. The story sounds very much like a sensational makeup, but seems to be credited by Mr. Hill and his surrounding neighbors. The distance and difficulty of communication with that point render it impossible to corroborate or disprove the story. An Important Decision. COLUMBUS, O., April 18.—The Supreme Court handed down an important decision yesterday in the case of Robert Patterson, a Miami County prisoner in the peniten-tiary, sent up on a five years' sentence for burglary, which sentence will expire in 1890. This being Patterson's third or fourth term he was marked for retention as a life prisoner under the Habitual Criminal act. That act was based upon the principle that a man who is convicted of three separate and successive crimes is a confirmed criminal and should be restrained of his liberty for the good of society. The attorneys for Patterson took the case to the Supreme Court for the purpose of testing the con-stitutionality of the act. The Court decided that the law is unconstitutional, and Patterson will therefore be released at the expiration of his legitimace sentence.

FRANKFORT, April 14.—SENATE.—Governor. Buckner sent in a veto to a bill for the benefit of H. B. Grahn, of Carter County. The bill gave Grahn the right to build railroads, tramways, etc., and to condemn such lands as he deemed necessary for his business. The Governor thought this right to condemn lands to his own use was unconstitutional. The resolution appropriating $240 to pay the funeral expenses of Senator Pieratt was passed. It also passed the House. A bill regulating the pay of witnesses in felony cases, allowing them pay for attendance when the case is continued, was passed. Several local bills were passed.

House.—This morning the Thomas railroad bill came up and was discussed till twelve o'clock when it was cut off by the order of the day. It abolishes the railroad commission. The Frankfort, April 16.—Senate.—The following House bills were passed: Amending acts incorporating the Richmond, Nicholasville, Irvine and Beattyville Raifrond Company; a bill incorporating the Hartford Branch Raifroad Company; incorporating the Cumberland Gap and Mississippi Valley railroad, with amendment; Amendment adopted and Mil passed; incorporating the Excitation Model and Machine Works: incorporating the Smithland, Erin and Decatur Railroad Company; incorporating the Eastern Kentucky Sheep Ranch Company. Mr. Alford reported a bill incorporating the Eastern Trunk Railway Company, Mr. E. E. Madden, W. B. Hoke, Geo. W. Swearingen and other Louisville capitalists are the incorporators. It proposed to run from near Catro, in Ballard Courty, across Kentucky to the Virginia line. The Senators jumped on the bill with amendments until very little was left, and it is now in good shape for the Governor's veto club. It was recommitted.

HOUSE—The bill providing for the abolition of the Railroad Commission came up in the House this morning, and speeches were made by Mr. Reed against, and Mr. Wilcox for, the proposed measure. Several amendments were offered, and further consideration of the bill was prevented by the order of the day, and this subject will be resumed to-morrow. A communication was received from Anditor Hewitt demanding an immediate investigation of the implied charge that he has misappropriated 883,126.42 belonging to the school fund. The Needham temperance bill came before the House, and Mr. Mulligan moved that it be printed and recommitted. A resolution was offered, and passed unanimously, adjourning the House in respect to the memory of Hom. Roscoe Conkling, and expressing sympathy for Mrs. Conkling and daughter.

FRANKYORT, April 19.—SENATE—The Derferman common school bill was passed by a good voie. It enlarges the duties and saiaries of county school superintendents; provides a five months school for every child in the State; raises the grade of teachers and county superintendents snaries; enables the county Institutes to be held before the schools open; enlarges the power of trustees to tax for school purposes; fixes regular dates for examinations, and secures uniformity in every department of the common school system. The Governor vetoed the act to incorporate the Pennsylvania and Kentucky Iron and Coal Company. House resolution relating to the death of Hon. Roscoe Conkling was taken up. After an Unequaled Struggle for Life the New York Statesman Succumbs to the Effects of His Exposure in the Late Storm.

New York, April 18.—Dr. Fordyce Barker seemed quite overcome as he stood on the steps of No. 9 West Twenty-fourth street yesterday afternoon and told the reporters of the impending dissolution of Roscoe Conkling. His eyes were suffused with tears and his voice was husky with emotion. He made no effort to conceal the fact that the death of the ex-Senator was expected at any moment. A feeling of sadness seemed to have spread among the guests of the Hoffman House, and there was an oppressive quietness and solemnity among the crowds in the corridors. Voices were hushed, and all were talking in low tones of the last sad news about the ex-Senator. The friends who came late to the house went away with sorrowful expressions, but said very little. The hopes that the doctors had had of Mr. Conkling's recovery were based upon the splendid physaque of the patient; and that was, perhaps, the very cause of his last sickness, which dates from the day of the great blizzard, March 12, when Mr. Conkling walked to his home in West Twenty-fourth street from his office at No. 2 Wall street. THE END OF A USEFUL LIFE.

He delighted in telling the story of his truggle and how he nearly got lost in a now drift in Union Square. For two weeks are the continued to work, but He delighted in telling the story of his struggie and how he nearly got lost in a snow drift in Union Square. For two weeks or so thereafter he continued to work, but on March 30 he had to give up. On April 3 he called in Dr. Agnew and on April 9 the operation involving the cutting of the mastoid bone, the projection behind the left ear, was reported to let out the pus that had accumulated in the honey-comb formation of the bone. Many believed that his sickness dated from his terrible bilizard experience. All the afternoon the sick statesman lay upon bis food in the rear of his apartments the Hoffman House annex. Very little motion of the body was noticeable, except a slight movement of his right side in a way that would irritate the cut in the right side of his head, which the surgeon had made as a last resort to save his life.

Dr. Barker called again shortly before eleven of clock and left at 11:15. He said that Mr. Conkling was unconscious, and would not regain consciousuess. His limbs were becoming cold and he had no perceptible pulse. The dootor added that Mr. Conkling was unconscious, and would not regain consciousuess. His limbs were becoming cold and he had no perceptible pulse. The dootor added that Mr. Conkling, Judge Cox, Dr. Anderton, and Mrs. Oaleman. Mr. Conkling passed away without moving a limb. yould not regain consciousuess. His limbs were becoming cold and he had no perceptide pulse. The doctor added that Mr. Conkling would probably die in two or three cours from a giving away of the vital forces. At the bedside of the dying man were Mrs. Conkling, Judge Cox, Dr. Anderton, and frs. Oakman. Mr. Conkling passed away vithout moving a limb. He looked as hough peacefully sleeping. There were a number of persons outside on the street vaiting to catch the last report. Within looks there were between forty and fifty persons also waiting to hear the worst. They were composed chiefly of representatives of the press and friends of the dead senator.

NEW YORK, April 18 .- 2:00 a. m .- Judge came to the door shortly after two and announced the death of Mr. cling at 1:50 a.m., In the room at the of death were Mrs. Conkling, Mrs. Oakher daughter, Judge Coxe, Dr. Anderand the nurse. Mr. Conkling died in rear chamber on the second floor Dr. Anderton left the house.

Mrs. Conkling is alone with her daughter, and is completely prostrated with grief. The interment will be at Utica, N. Y.

offered another resolution looking to the same end. The debate which followed brought him out in his first forensic effort. His speech on this occasion gave him national fame in a day.

Mr. Conkling took a modest part in the debates and legislation of that trying session, and more than once gave the House a test of his elequence and his command of pure English. Though one of the youngest members he also gave evidence of the possession of strong convictions and rare courage, as in his opposition to the majority of his party on the abortive Thirteenth Amendment compromise, and in his vote against the dismemberment of Virginia as a Union measure. On this question the Republican party was almost unanimous in favor of admitting West Virginia. In his second term Mr. Conkling had the pleasure of sitting in the House with his brother Frederick, who represented one of the New York City districts.

In 1868 Mr. Conkling was defeated for re-election in the Utica district by his law associate, Francis Kerman, but he was successful two years later, and resumed his seat in the Thirty-ninth Congress. His work during the sessions of this Concress stamped him one of the foremost debaters and statesmen of the day. His speeches on questions of the war, his opposition to the legal tender act, and his efforts in behalf of various measures for the reconstruction of the Southern States are a part of the history of that memorable decade. He was a member of the joint committee on reconstruction and was a leader in the great debates on that question.

In the autumn of 1866 Mr. Conkling was elected to the United States Senate. To write his history in that body would be to write a history of the legislation and great debates from 1867 to 1881, for he was twice re-elected a Senator. He more than did justice to the reputation which he had gained in the House and soon became one of the greatest of Senators. He was strong in debate and the galleries were sure to be filled whenever he was announced for a speech. He was gradually assuming that l

The Water in the Wisconsin Rivers Con-tinues to Rise—Families Compelled to Flee from their Homes and Great Dam-age to Property Reported.

LA CROSSE, Wis., April 18.-The water stands fourteen feet two inches by the gauge. Several lumber yards are inundated and the flour mills have been obliged to shut down. The residents in the eastern portion of North La Crosse have been obliged to move out. The Black River is falling and danger to loggers is over. PORTAGE, Wis., April 18.-The Wisconsin river is still rising and the St. Paul tracks are threatened. Men have been set to work building a levee to protect the Portage branch of the St. Paul railway. MINNEAPOLIS, April 18.—The Journal's

Lake City, Minn., special says: There is the highest water here ever known in April. Some damage was done Monday night to the warehouse of the Diamond Joe steam-boat line and to Gillett's foundry and Sprague's stable by ice. The Diamond Joe warehouse in Pepin, which is full of grain, is threatened. The water is still rising slightly, and a general break of the ice is expected soon.

Corbin Makes Conditions for Strikers. PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—President Corbin, of the Reading railroad, has issued a circular letter addressed to General Manager McLeod. In it he says that if upon careful examination of the various letters received from former employes of the road applying for positions, it can be shown that their cases are not covered by the order. their cases are not covered by the order of December 24, last—"that the men should re-turn to work on the 27th or be debarred thereafter from entering the service of the company"—it is his desire that they be permitted to return when vacancies occur, on condition that they will not become members of the Knights of Labor or any other Regulators at Work in Mississippi.

Chicago, April 18.—A special from Magnolia, Miss., says that there is great excitement in the southeastern portion of Pike County, on account of the actions of a band of regulators who are flogging negroes on any pretext. Sunday night they flogged Frank Warner, a negro boy about fifteen years old. They then arrested two brothers named Kaigler, who were accused of robbing a store, and whipped them in a brutai manner, leaving them for dead. Several of the party have been arrested.

MOST interesting contribution to secret history will be the illustrated papers on "Siberia and the Exile System," by George Kennan, which are to begin in the May Century magazine. They will embody the results of what is believed to be the first successful attempt by a competent investigator to make a thorough study of the Russian exile system. Before undertaking his arduous journey of 15,000 miles, in the interest of The Century, Mr. Kennan, author of Tent Life in Siberia, etc., had spent four years in Russin and Siberia, was thoroughly conversant with the people and the language, and had reached the conclusion that the Russian Government had been misrepresented, and that the exile system of Siberia was not so terrible as was supposed. Knowing that Mr. Kennan held these views, the Russian Government gave him every facility for a thorough INSPECTION OF MINES AND PRISONS of Siberia—the most thorough that had ever been made by a traveler. Armed with letters from the Russian Minister of the Interior and other high officials, Mr. Kennan went everywhere, inspecting mines and prisons, convict barges and hospitals, and traveling with chained exiles along the great Siberian road. He made the intimate personal acquaintance of more than three hundred exiled "liberals" and Nifilists, many of whom wrote out their histories for his use. The actual facts, as revealed by this searching investigation, were far removed from Mr. Kennan's preconceived ideas, as this thrilling narrative of fifteen months' privation and adventure will show. As is already known, the publication of Mr. Kennan's preiminary papers has resulted in his being placed by the Russian Government, and copies of The Century containing them have the objectionable article torn out by the custom officials before being allowed to enter the Czar's dominions.

"I expected, of course," says Mr. Kennan, in a recent interview, "to be put on the Russian black list. The stable-door is locked, but the horse has been stelen—and I've got him."

The Two Great Dangers to Which Coal Miners Are Exposed. This mine, while one of the largest, was also one of the most dangerous in the valley. In order to keep the workings supplied with pure air, in quantity sufficient to render harmless the explo sive gases released by opening the coal-seams, an immense fan had been constructed which, during every minute that it was in action, drew forth from the mine over two hundred thousand cubic feet of impure air. The letter was properly referred to the Director of the Mint, James Pollock, of Pennsylvania, a robust Chrisin his report for 1862, discusses the question, claiming that in the administration of our political system our highest obligation is the distinct and unequivocal recognition of Divine sover eignty, and that our National coinage, in its devices and legends, should indieate the Christian character of our nation, and declare its trust in God.

He expr sses his gratification that the proposition to introduce a motto upon our coins expressing a National reliance on Divine support has been favorably considered by the Secretary, and does not doubt its approval by an intelligent public sentiment.

The suggestion receiving no atten tion in Congress, in his next annual report Mr. Pollock returns to the subject in sound theological form and adds:

"The motto suggested God our Trust, is taken from our national hymn 'The Star Spangled Banner.' The sentiment is familiar to every citizen of our country, it has thrilled the hearts and fallen in song from the lips of millions of American freeman. The time s propitious, 'tis an hour of national peril and danger; an hour when man's strength is weakness, when our strength cognition of trust in the Divine should be confined to the bronze coinage, since the silver and the gold are His, and urges with all the fervor of an earnest Christian spirit further legislation in the same direction.

In his annual report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1865, as Director of the Mint, James Pollock announces the success that crowned his efforts

"By the fifth section of the act of Congress of March 3, 1865, the Direct-or of the Mint, with the approval of the Secretary of Treasury, was authorized to place upon all the gold and silver coins of the United States, susceptible of such additions, thereafter be issued, the motto 'In God we Trust.' The necessary dies are being prepared, and it is confidently expected that before the close of the catendar year the gold and silver coins of the Mint of the United States will have impressed upon them, by National authority, the recognition of the sovereignity of God and our Nation's trust in Him. - Golden Days.

PARISIAN ETIQUETTE. Baroness de Rothschild Teaches Her Guests to Depart Early. was demonstrated how completely the time has passed when those of her race were abused and snubbed all round. The Baroness, desiring to go to a party which was to take place on the same evening as her dinner, and wishing to get rid of her distinguished body of guests, adopted for so doing a very simple measure, about which all persons not at the dinner have laughed ever since. Before any one had thought of going home the entire party was affectionately shown the door by the Baroness, who did what she could to soften their mortification by expressing her gratitude to them for having taken the trouble to come and see her for such a short time.
